

28th Annual Rhino Invitational Tournament
Player Rankings and Predictions
(* = Rhino championship won) (J = Junior Rhino)

Golfer	Ave. post-2003	#Yrs. post-2003	2012 Rhino Outlook
Johnno Sheehan	76.0	2	With “amateur” status restored, can he find the time/permission to return this year?
Gus Kearny	76.5	4	Abandoned Rhino for AOL pro circuit in 2008; finishes have been more exciting ever since
Mike Pulletti	77	1	Only the “rookie rule” prevented a win last year; this year, there may be a “Hokie rule”
Rich Armstrong	80	2	Two-time champ has been absent from the Rhino since 2006
Scott Nengel*	80.3	6	Known as “The Mechanic” of Baltimore, patterns his game after Miguel Angel Jimenez
Mason Hecker*	80.5	2	Last year’s winner broke through in just second Rhino start, but it’s tough to repeat
Bruce Palmieri*	81.2	8	“Country Club” last seen “night putting” with the Dean’s daughter.
John Reddan*	81.3	3	Colorful Herndon icon has been MIA for the past few years.
Steve Murray	82	4	No relation to Bill, but hoping to channel the Caddyshack icon’s mojo from Pebble Beach
Rudy Barnes	83.5	8	Rudy 2.0 is lean, mean, and on the green.
David Forrest	83.8	8	Crowd favorite still trying to shed the title “Best Player Never To Have Won The Rhino”
Todd Berger	83.8	8	Anger management classes with Charlie Sheen finally paid off with big Rhino win in 2009
Bob Weir	84.6	8	Two-time champ famed for smooth lefty swing, bucket hats, and ingenious side bets
Bruce Hemstreet	85	2	Known as the “Fred Couples of Herndon,” both for his bad back and his easy-going demeanor
Bill Fields	85.7	7	Still looking for ways to add bowling and pop-a-shot to the Rhino scoring mix
Jon Sack*	85.8	8	Only 4-time champ prefers “urban feel” of Clifton Park; still adapting to Herndon
Erik Burgess	86.5	2	Reconstructed ACL performed well in 2011; time for a reconstructed brain in 2012?
Curtis Lu	87.1	8	Mr. Consistent seldom strays from high-80s score; credits Bill Murray for “keeping me loose”
Dave Jenkins	88	1	Rhino rookie made the trek from NC last year, improving Rhino average for WTW ‘85 alums
Todd Etter	88.7	8	Puzzle guy now prefers to submit Rhino scorecard in Trinary – “just for fun”
Ram Srinivasan	89	2	Now a full-fledged MD, scores may plummet with extra practice time
Amarin Sangkharat	89	2	Rumors that he inspired several “Grey’s Anatomy” episodes have finally been disproved
Dave McCreedy	89.3	6	Old Codger “Plan Z” in goal could be Plan A in the Rhino
Charlie Scarborough	90.3	8	Tourney host now willing to give big bucks for a decent shot off the first tee.
James Assey*	91.3	3	After sharing championship in 1993, James “re-tooled” swing for lobbying purposes
Greg Weltz	91.5	2	Reconstructed hip has Greg looking like “Iron Byron” this year
Ann Etter	92.3	3	Shattered Rhino gender barrier in 1994; can she find a way to return to the field in 2012?

28th Annual Rhino Invitational Tournament

Player Rankings and Predictions

(* = Rhino championship won) (J = Junior Rhino)

Bruce Anderson	92.4	7	The “quiet” Anderson brother applies physical chemistry background for consistent iron play
Jim Maloney	92.9	7	NJ laundromat kingpin is well-connected and dangerous – both on and off the course
Dave Hendrix	94	2	Made the trek all the way from Austin, TX in 2011; can he defend “Farthest Traveler” award?
Thomas Norton	94	1	When not golfing, will check your computer for viruses
Mike Curtis	95	7	Proof that living closer to Augusta National doesn’t necessarily improve your game.
Dirk Suringa	95	2	Has dusted brother-in-law Tom Scott in both Rhinos he completed
Mark Goodin	96	6	Claims Mitt is his guy. Really.
Mike Spinelli	96	1	Has taken time off from golf to lobby full-time to have a pasta named after him
Mike Nilsson	96	1	When he plays, has the highest “viewer ratings” of anyone in the Rhino field
C.A. Pilling	96.8	6	Does “C.A.” mean “consistently average”? Has shot 96 in last three Rhinos
Paul Kelly	97	1	Attempting to establish a trade association composed entirely of 80s cover bands
Chris Stevenson	97.1	7	Can Mr. Boh channel his inner-Bubba and keep the ball in play this year?
Eric Weber	98.3	4	E-Web was part of the Anderson “Fab 5” in early 90s; now just trying to avoid major injuries
Dean Krehmeyer	100	3	Still trying to sort out ethical issues to permit return of “Delta sponsorship” for his foursome
Steve Nally	100.5	4	Determined to play in the Rhino for as long as it takes to get average back below 100
Mike Pryzby	100.5	6	Developing gravity-defying ball based on engineering work with Space Shuttle payloads
Mike Schiavo	102	1	Bike guy described as the “Lance Armstrong of golf”; just means he is impervious to pain
Eric Jones	105	1	Plane ticket from Atlanta – $300; Rhino entry – $ 100; beating Pryzby in Rhino – priceless!
Dale Lumme	105	1	As a Navy pilot, they called him “Kid”; at the Rhino, needs a “wingman” to find lost balls
Dave McCarthy	105.3	3	Needs to “Runfast” back to the Rhino field; we need more colorful outfits!
Conrad Ello	105.5	3	Ello rhymes with Jello, and that’s funny all by itself
Chris Guthrie	105.8	7	Like Fred Couples, if his back holds up, he can be dangerous; if not, still “dangerous”
Paul Flatin	106	1	Lobbying for the Rhino to be a team sport, and include swimming
Eric Anderson*	106.1	8	Dubious disinction: no other former Rhino champ has an average higher than 100
Ellis Butler	107.1	8	Beer intake directly proportional to golfing success . . . up to about 6; then the singing starts
Christina Murray	107.2	6	Did she get the nickname “X” from her Rhino scorecard?
Ken Schwartz	107.2	6	Happy Gilmore putting-stroke and colorful language is always a hit with the fans
David Gallagher	107.7	6	Will his second baby shave as many strokes off as the first?
Mark Hill	108	5	Soccer player best known for unorthodox use of “foot wedge” out of bunkers

28th Annual Rhino Invitational Tournament

Player Rankings and Predictions

(* = Rhino championship won) (J = Junior Rhino)

Jon Tuttle	109.6	5	Can help with complex SEC investigations; not so much with 4-foot putts
David Bird	110.7	7	Former AUCP “First Gentleman” is always consistent: shot 110-112 in last 6 of 7 Rhinos
Jeff Berger	112	2	Planning to demand a “wrestle-off” after brother Todd beats him again this year
Tony Bonta	112.5	2	Big Tony is reportedly too busy “running the docks” in Baltimore to play in the Rhino
Steve Nicholakos	113	1	Rhino rookie last year is eligible to win this year, or to keep Pulletti from winning
Joel Rogers	113	3	A move to Georgia doesn’t mean you can’t play in the Rhino!
Colby Smith	113	2	Applies same rope-a-dope strategy used to help clients under SEC investigations to golf
Lachlan McLean	113.7	3	Euphoria from Duke’s early NCAA loss could bring him back to the field after 4 years away
Tom Scott	113.8	8	Will this year’s rhyming Xmas card include some couplets about the Rhino?
Chris Wyckoff	114.5	2	Just hoping wife will let him complete this year’s round
Jack Hecker (J)	121	1	Son of defending Rhino champ proved last year that the apple doesn’t fall far from the tree
Joe Guarino	123	2	Will he again channel Wonder-Twin powers with Krehmeyer this year?
Chris Anderson (J)	128	1	Eldest son of the Rhino has come into his own at this event; his Dad would be proud!
Toby Bush	130.3	3	Purports to be from Great Britain . . . and yet golf seems so foreign to him
Sean Collins	132	3	Mr. “DNF” has only one recorded Rhino score in 3 rounds played
Brian Collins	133.9	4	Still arguing that no rule specifically prohibits a golfer from teeing it up in the fairway
Joe Ho	138.7	3	Bionic knees have propelled star of Rhino instructional DVD to new highs/lows
Hernando Herrera	143.3	3	Continuing his long, inexorable march from Rhino ignominy to stardom
Will Packard	145	1	One Rhino may have been one too many for 2010 “Mr. Nice Guy”
Brad Rosenthal	146.4	5	Used to own the boobie prize; has been shut out since 2006. Must dig deep for big numbers
Maddy Anderson (J)	147	1	Youngest female ever to post a real 18-hole score at the Rhino has many good years ahead
Carrie Vinch	149.5	3	Oddly, husband Bruce plays better with Carrie than in years when she’s not in the field.
Marc Margolis	150	3	Former boobie prize winner has been absent for past 2 years
